12 FAR EAST NATIONAL BANK, a Federally
Chartered Bank; SINOPAC HOLDINGS, a 13 Foreign Corporation; LIBERTY ASSET MANAGEMENT CORPORATION, a
14 California Corporation; TLH-REO
MANAGEMENT, LLC, a California
15 Limited Liability Company;
GFC SERVICE CORPORATION,

H & Q ASIA PACIFIC II, LLC, a
17 Delaware Limited Liability Company,

Case No: C 12-5962 SBA

ORDER GRANTING IN PART MOTIONS TO DISMISS WITH LIMITED LEAVE TO AMEND

Dkt. 11, 12, 20

21 The instant action arises from a dispute between Plaintiff Beruz Jalili (“Plaintiff”) 22 and several financial institutions relating to construction and other loans on various 23 properties owned by Plaintiff. As Defendants, Plaintiff has named the following parties:
24 Far East National Bank (“the Bank”); Sinopac Holdings (“Sinopac”); Liberty Asset
25 Management Corporation (“Liberty”); TLH-REO Management, LLC (“TLH”); GFC
26 Service Corporation (“GFC”); and H & Q Asia Pacific II, LLC (“H&Q”). Plaintiff alleges 27 federal claims under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (“RICO”)

1 and the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (“RESPA”), along with various 2 supplemental state law causes of action.

3 This matter is before the Court on three motions: (1) the Bank and Sinpac’s motion 4 to dismiss; (2) the Bank and Sinpac’s motion to strike; and (3) Liberty, TLH, GFC and 5 H&Q’s motion to dismiss. Having read and considered the papers filed in connection with 6 this matter and being fully informed, the Court hereby GRANTS the motions to dismiss as 7 to Plaintiff’s federal claims and declines to address Plaintiff’s state law claims at this 8 juncture. In light of the ruling on the motion to dismiss, the Court DENIES the motion to 9 strike as moot. The Court, in its discretion, finds this matter suitable for resolution without 10 oral argument. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 78(b); N.D. Cal. Civ. L.R. 7-1(b).

11 I. BACKGROUND

12 A. FACTUAL SUMMARY<sup>1</sup>

13 Plaintiff owns various properties in Berkeley, California, located at: (1) 1311-1315 14 San Pablo Avenue (“the San Pablo Avenue Property”); 1043-1049 Virginia Street (“the 15 Virginia Street Property”); and 1348A, 1348B, 1350A and 1350B Rose Street (“the Rose 16 Street Property”). Compl. ¶ 13, 14, 18. Plaintiff co-owns the Rose Street Property with his 17 sister, who is not a party to this action. Id. ¶ 18.

18 Plaintiff’s financial relationship with the Bank began on or about December 5, 2005, 19 when he obtained a $100,000 line of credit secured by the San Pablo Avenue Property. Id.
 20 ¶ 13. Thereafter, Plaintiff secured additional loans from the Bank. On May 30, 2007, he 21 obtained a $2.25 million construction loan to develop condominiums at the Virginia Street 22 Property. Id. ¶¶ 15-16. Later, on July 13, 2007, Plaintiff obtained a $1.21 million 23 construction loan for a development project at the Rose Street Property. Id. ¶¶ 19-20.

24 Due to the impact of the economic recession on the San Francisco Bay Area real 25 estate market in late 2008, Plaintiff and the Bank realized that development project at the 26 Virginia Street Property was “under water,” i.e., the amount of the loan exceeded the value

27 <sup>1</sup> The following summary is taken from allegations of the Complaint, which, for 28 purposes of these motions, are accepted as true.

1 of the finished condominiums. Id. ¶¶ 25-26. As such, the Bank extended the term of the 2 construction loans, as well as the $100,000 line of credit, so that he could proceed with the 3 development. Id. ¶¶ 28-32. Plaintiff claims that he agreed to complete his real estate 4 projects based on the Bank's representation that it would provide long-term financing. Id.
5 ¶ 34.

6 In December 2009, Plaintiff and the Bank agreed to roll Plaintiff's existing loans 7 into two new ones: Promissory Note A in the amount of $2.755 million; and Promissory 8 Note B in the amount of $869,543. Id. ¶ 38. The Bank represented to Plaintiff that 9 "Promissory Note B was to be written off[.]" Id. ¶ 45. According to Plaintiff, the Bank 10 used the two new loans and related representations as a means to induce him to continue 11 with the projects and to provide more real property as security so that the Bank could later 12 transfer or sell the loans on the open market after the projects were completed. Id. ¶ 43.

13 In February 2012, the Bank transferred Promissory Note A and Promissory Note B
14 to its Stressed Asset Division. Id. ¶ 45. Following the transfer, the Bank informed Plaintiff 15 "for the first time—and contrary to prior representations—that [the Bank] was not going to 16 further extend or modify the loans represented by Promissory Note A or Promissory Note 17 B." Id. Plaintiff was also told that he could "buy out" the obligations under both notes for 18 $1.7 million. Id.

19 On a date not specified in the pleadings, the Bank sold Promissory Note A and 20 Promissory Note B to Liberty at less than fair market value for $1.5 million. Id. ¶ 47.
21 Plaintiff claims that the Bank sold the property to Liberty so that both of them could share 22 in the profit realized from the eventual sale of Plaintiff's properties. Id. ¶ 47. A few weeks 23 later, Liberty sold the notes to TLH for $1.7 million. Id.

1                   B. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

2                   On November 21, 2012, Plaintiff filed the instant action against the Bank, Sinopac, 3 Liberty, TLH, GFC and H&Q.<sup>2</sup> The Complaint alleges eight claims for relief for:
 4 (1) Fraud; (2) Misrepresentation; (3) violation of RICO; (4) Promissory Estoppel;
 5 (5) Breach of Contract; (6) Reformation; (7) Breach of Statutory Notice (RESPA)
 6 Obligations; and (8) an Accounting.

7                   The Bank and Sinopac have jointly filed two motions, a motion to dismiss under 8 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) and a motion to strike under Rule 12(e).
 9 Separately, Liberty, TLH, GFC and H&Q have filed a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss.<sup>3</sup> 10 Plaintiff and Defendants timely filed their opposition and reply briefs, respectively. The 11 matter is now ripe for adjudication.

12                   II. LEGAL STANDARD

13                   Pleadings in federal court actions are governed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 14 8(a)(2), which requires only “a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the 15 pleader is entitled to relief[.]” Rule 12(b)(6) “tests the legal sufficiency of a claim.” 16 Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). A complaint may be dismissed under 17 Rule 12(b)(6) for failure to state a cognizable legal theory or insufficient facts to support a 18 cognizable legal theory. Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep’t, 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir.
 19 1990). “[C]ourts must consider the complaint in its entirety, as well as other sources courts 20 ordinarily examine when ruling on Rule 12(b)(6) motions to dismiss, in particular, 21 documents incorporated into the complaint by reference, and matters of which a court may 22 take judicial notice.” Tellabs, Inc. v. Makor Issues & Rights, Ltd., 551 U.S. 308, 322 23 (2007). The court is to “accept all factual allegations in the complaint as true and construe

25                   <sup>2</sup> Sinopac is the parent company of the Bank. Id. ¶ 3. In addition, Sinopac and H&Q 26 are allegedly alter egos of the Bank. Id. ¶ 10. GFC is alleged to be the servicing agent for 27 TLH on Promissory Note A and Promissory Note B. Id. ¶ 46.

28                   <sup>3</sup> The motions to dismiss present largely identical arguments, and therefore, will be discussed together.

1 the pleadings in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party.” Outdoor Media Group, 2 Inc. v. City of Beaumont, 506 F.3d 895, 899-900 (9th Cir. 2007).

3 To survive a motion to dismiss, “a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, 4 accepted as true, to ‘state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 5 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)).
 6 The complaint must afford the defendants with “fair notice” of the claims against them, and 7 the grounds upon which the claims are based. Swierkiewicz v. Sorema N.A., 534 U.S. 506, 8 512 (2002). “Threadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere 9 conclusory statements, do not suffice.” Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678. Where a complaint or claim 10 is dismissed, “[l]eave to amend should be granted unless the district court determines that 11 the pleading could not possibly be cured by the allegation of other facts.” Knappenberger 12 v. City of Phoenix, 566 F.3d 936, 942 (9th Cir. 2009).

13 III. DISCUSSION

14 A. RICO

15 RICO provides for civil liability for “[a]ny person injured in his business or 16 property by reason of a violation of section 1962.” Beck v. Prupis, 529 U.S. 494, 495 17 (2000) (quoting 18 U.S.C. § 1964(c)). RICO contains three substantive subsections, which 18 are set forth in 18 U.S.C. § 1962(a), (b) and (c). The Complaint purports to state a claim 19 under each of these subsections. See Compl. ¶¶ 61-67. The Court discusses each claim, in 20 turn.

21 1. 18 U.S.C. § 1962(a) & (b)

22 Section 1962(a) prohibits acquiring, establishing or operating “an enterprise” with 23 income derived “from a pattern of racketeering activity or through collection of an unlawful 24 debt.” 18 U.S.C. § 1962(a). To state a claim under § 1962(a), Plaintiff must allege facts 25 establishing the following: (1) a person receives income derived directly or indirectly from 26 a pattern of racketeering activity or unlawful debt; (2) that person uses or invests, directly 27 or indirectly, any part or proceeds of such income in the acquisition of any interest in, or 28 the establishment or operation of any enterprise; and (3) that enterprise is engaged in or its

1 activities affect interstate or foreign commerce. United States v. Robertson, 15 F.3d 862, 2 868 (9th Cir. 1994), rev'd on other grounds by 514 U.S. 669 (1995). In addition, a plaintiff 3 "must allege that the investment of racketeering income was the proximate cause of its 4 injury." Sybersound Records Inc. v. UAV Corp., 517 F.3d 1137, 1149 (9th Cir. 2008).

5 Section 1962(b) provides: "It shall be unlawful for any person through a pattern of 6 racketeering activity or through collection of an unlawful debt to acquire or maintain, 7 directly or indirectly, any interest in or control of any enterprise which is engaged in, or the 8 activities of which affect, interstate or foreign commerce." 18 U.S.C. § 1962(b) (emphasis 9 added). To bring a claim under this provision, "plaintiff must allege that 1) the defendant's 10 activity led to its control or acquisition over a RICO enterprise, and 2) an injury to plaintiff 11 resulting from defendant's control or acquisition of a RICO enterprise." Wagh v. Metris 12 Direct, Inc., 363 F.3d 821, 830 (9th Cir. 2003), overruled on other grounds Odom v.
 13 Microsoft Corp., 486 F.3d 541, 551 (9th Cir. 2007) (en banc). Plaintiff must also plead 14 "facts sufficient to assert standing" by alleging facts showing that "the alleged racketeering 15 activity . . . [was] used to injure him," and "allege a specific nexus between the control of 16 the enterprise and the racketeering activity." Id.

17 Plaintiff's allegations in support of his claim under § 1962(a) and (b) are set forth in 18 Paragraph 63 and 64 of the Complaint, respectively. These paragraphs, however, are 19 devoid of any facts and simply restate the language of the statute in an entirely conclusory 20 manner. This is precisely the type of conclusory, fact-barren pleading which the Supreme 21 Court and Ninth Circuit have held is insufficient to avoid a motion to dismiss. Iqbal, 556 22 U.S. at 678 ("Threadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere 23 conclusory statements, do not suffice."); Cousins v. Lockyer, 568 F.3d 1063, 1067 (9th Cir.
 24 2009) ("conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to avoid 25 a Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal."). Accordingly, the Court DISMISSES Plaintiff's claims under 26 § 1962(a) and (b), with leave to amend.

27
 28

1                   2.       18 U.S.C. § 1962(c)

2                   Section 1962(c) makes it “unlawful for any person employed by or associated with 3 any enterprise engaged in, or the activities of which affect, interstate or foreign commerce, 4 to conduct or participate, directly or indirectly, in the conduct of such enterprise’s affairs 5 through a pattern of racketeering activity or collection of unlawful debt.” To state a civil 6 RICO claim, a plaintiff must allege five elements: (1) conduct, (2) of an enterprise, 7 (3) through a pattern, (4) of racketeering activity, establishing that (5) the defendant caused 8 injury to the plaintiff’s business or property. See Sedima, S.P.R.L. v. Imrex Co., Inc., 473 9 U.S. 479, 496 (1985).

10                  a)      *Pattern Requirement

11                  “To state a RICO claim, one must allege a ‘pattern’ of racketeering activity, which 12 requires at least two predicate acts.” Clark v. Time Warner Cable, 523 F.3d 1110, 1116 13 (9th Cir. 2008) (citations omitted); 18 U.S.C. §§ 1961(5), 1962(c). The term “racketeering 14 activity,” also referred to as “predicate acts,” includes “any act indictable under several 15 provisions of Title 18 of the United States Code, and includes the predicate acts of mail 16 fraud, wire fraud and obstruction of justice.” Sanford v. MemberWorks, Inc., 625 F.3d 17 550, 557 (9th Cir. 2010).

18                   “[W]hile two predicate acts are required under the Act, they are not necessarily 19 sufficient.” Turner v. Cook, 362 F.3d 1219, 1229 (9th Cir. 2004). Rather, “[a] ‘pattern’ of 20 racketeering activity also requires proof that the racketeering predicates are related and 21 ‘that they amount to or pose a threat of continued criminal activity.’” Id. (quoting in part 22 H.J. Inc. v. Northwestern Bell Tel. Co., 492 U.S. 229, 239 (1989)). In H.J., the Supreme 23 Court explained the “continuity” requirement as follows:

24                  Continuity is both a closed and open ended concept, referring 25 either to a closed period of repeated conduct, or to past conduct 26 that by its nature projects into the future with a threat of 27 repetition . . . . A party alleging a RICO violation may 28 demonstrate continuity over a closed period by proving a series of related predicates extending over a substantial period of time.
 Predicate acts extending over a few weeks or months and threatening no future criminal conduct do not satisfy this requirement: Congress was concerned in RICO with long term criminal conduct.

1 H.J., 492 U.S. at 241-42. “Thus, in order to allege open-ended continuity, a RICO plaintiff 2 must charge a form of predicate misconduct that by its nature projects into the future with a 3 threat of repetition.” Turner, 362 F.3d at 1229. “Conversely, an alleged series of related 4 predicates not extending over a substantial period of time and not threatening future 5 criminal conduct fails to charge closed-ended continuity.” Id.

6 Here, the Complaint does not specifically identify any predicate acts. Rather, the 7 pleadings merely allege that “Defendants used the interstate mails and wires to further its 8 pattern of racketeering activity, in violation of federal law, including by communicating 9 with Plaintiff and each other.” Compl. ¶ 64. These conclusory allegations fail to comport 10 with the heightened pleading standards of Rule 9(b), which apply, where, as here, the RICO 11 predicate acts are based on fraudulent conduct. Edwards v. Marin Park, Inc., 356 F.3d 12 1058, 1065-66 (9th Cir. 2004). To comport with Rule 9(b), plaintiffs must plead with 13 particularity the time, place, and manner of each act of fraud, as well as the role of each 14 defendant in each scheme. Id. Since the Complaint fails to allege such facts, Plaintiff’s 15 RICO claim must be dismissed. Id. (affirming dismissal of RICO claim which identified 16 the parties involved but did not specify the content of the communications); Alan Neuman 17 Prods., Inc. v. Albright, 862 F.2d 1388, 1392-393 (9th Cir. 1988) (“The allegations of 18 predicate acts in the complaint concerning those elements of RICO are entirely general; no 19 specifics of time, place, or nature of the alleged communications are pleaded. This is a 20 fatal defect under Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b)”).

21 In his opposition, Plaintiff contends that the requisite predicate acts are alleged in 22 Paragraph 65 of the Complaint, which avers that “[t]he predicate acts that establish the 23 requisite racketeering activity . . . include[] the acts and omissions that led to the Consent 24 Order.” Compl. ¶ 65. The Consent Order was entered into by the United States 25 Comptroller of the Currency (“Comptroller”) and the Bank on or about March 9, 2010, 26 following the Comptroller’s stated intention to initiate cease and desist proceedings against 27 the Bank under 12 U.S.C. § 1818(b) “for unsafe and unsound banking practices relating to 28 supervision of the Bank[.]” Compl. Ex. J (Stip. and Consent to the Issuance of a Consent

1 Order ¶ 1), Dkt. 1 at 136. Setting aside that there is no reference in the Consent Order to 2 any mail or wire fraud or any other predicate acts, Plaintiff has made no showing that such 3 order relates to any of the specific conduct that forms the basis of this action. Moreover, 4 even if the Consent Order were sufficient to establish the existence of two or more 5 predicate acts—which it clearly is not—Plaintiff has alleged no facts to satisfy the 6 continuity requirement. These deficiencies compel the dismissal of Plaintiff’s RICO claim.
7 See Lacey v. Maricopa Cnty., 693 F.3d 896, 939 (9th Cir. 2012) (“We agree with the 8 district court that [plaintiff] offers only vague allegations with no factual support that the 9 defendants engaged in any of the requisite predicate crimes. This ‘unadorned, the-10 defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation’ is insufficient to survive a motion to 11 dismiss.”).

b) Enterprise

13        An “enterprise” for purposes of RICO is “any individual, partnership, corporation, 14 association, or other legal entity, and any union or group of individuals associated in fact 15 although not a legal entity.” 18 U.S.C. § 1961(4). Under this definition, an enterprise can 16 be a single individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other legal entity. Odom, 17 486 F.3d at 548. The Supreme Court has defined an associated-in-fact enterprise as “a 18 group of persons associated together for a common purpose of engaging in a course of 19 conduct.” United States v. Turkette, 452 U.S. 576, 583 (1981). “To establish the existence 20 of such an enterprise, a plaintiff must provide both ‘evidence of an ongoing organization, 21 formal or informal,’ and ‘evidence that the various associates function as a continuing 22 unit.’” Odom, 486 F.3d at 552 (quoting Turkette, 452 U.S. at 583); Walter v. Drayson, 538 23 F.3d 1244, 1249 (9th Cir. 2008) (“there must be an element of direction.”).

24 It is unclear from the Complaint whether Plaintiff is alleging that the enterprise is an 25 individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other legal entity. See Compl. ¶ 63. To 26 the extent that Plaintiff is attempting to allege an associated-in-fact enterprise, his 27 allegations are entirely conclusory. For example, the Complaint avers that Defendants 28 “participated in, or have been associated with, an enterprise,” but neglects to present any

1 facts demonstrating each Defendant's role in the enterprise. See Reves v. Ernst & Young, 2 507 U.S. 170, 183 (1993) (stating that a party is not liable under § 1962 "unless one has 3 participated in the operation or management of the enterprise itself"). There also are no 4 factual allegations demonstrating the existence of "an ongoing organization" in which 5 "various associates function as a continuing unit." Odom, 486 F.3d at 552 (internal 6 quotations and citation omitted). Given these conclusory allegations, Plaintiff's RICO 7 claim must be dismissed. See Elliott v. Foufas, 867 F.2d 877, 881 (5th Cir. 1989) ("In 8 order to avoid dismissal for failure to state a claim, a [RICO] plaintiff must plead specific 9 facts, not mere conclusory allegations, which establish the existence of an enterprise").

10 In sum, the Court finds that Plaintiff has failed to allege facts sufficient to state a 11 claim under § 1962(c). Accordingly, the Court DISMISSES said claim with leave to 12 amend.

13 B. RESPA

14 Plaintiff's seventh claim alleges that Defendants violated RESPA's notice 15 requirements, which apply specifically to "federally related mortgage loans." See 12 16 U.S.C. § 2605(b).<sup>4</sup> The definition of "federally regulated mortgage loans" specifically 17 excludes "temporary financing such as a construction loan[.]" See 12 U.S.C. § 2602(1).
 18 Commercial loans also are excluded from the purview of RESPA. See Johnson v. Wells 19 Fargo Home Mortg., Inc., 635 F.3d 401, 421 (9th Cir. 2011). Here, Plaintiff concedes that 20 the loans at issue are construction and commercial loans. Pl.'s Opp'n at 14. Because 21 RESPA creates no duties with respect to such loans, the Court GRANTS Defendants' 22 motion to dismiss Plaintiff's seventh claim under RESPA. Such dismissal is with 23 prejudice, as further amendment would be futile.

26

27 <sup>4</sup> This section provides that: "Each servicer of any federally related mortgage loan 28 shall notify the borrower in writing of any assignment, sale, or transfer of the servicing of the loan to any other person." 12 U.S.C. § 2605(b)(1).

1                   C.     REMAINING STATE LAW CLAIMS

2                   Federal court jurisdiction is limited to claims raising federal questions or involving 3 parties with diverse citizenship. Exxon Mobil Corp. v. Allapattah Servs., Inc., 545 U.S.
 4 546, 552 (2005). In this case, Plaintiff predicates this Court's subject matter jurisdiction on 5 his federal RICO and RESPA claims. See 28 U.S.C. § 1331. The Court's jurisdiction over 6 the remaining state law claims is based on supplemental jurisdiction. Id. § 1337(a).

7                   At this juncture, the Court has dismissed Plaintiff's federal claims, and is permitting 8 leave to amend only as to the RICO claim. Because it presently is unclear whether Plaintiff 9 can state a cognizable federal claim by amending his Complaint to allege facts 10 demonstrating a plausible RICO claim, the Court will not engage at this time in an analysis 11 of whether Plaintiff has plead cognizable state law claims. See Gusenkov v. Washington 12 Mut. Bank, FA, No. C 09-04747 SI, 2010 WL 2612349, *6 (N.D. Cal. June 24, 2010) 13 (granting motion to dismiss federal claims and declining to consider viability of state law 14 claims pending plaintiff's amendment of the federal claims).

15                   The Court advises Plaintiff that if he does not timely amend his Complaint within 16 the time period specified below or is unable to amend his Complaint to state a cognizable 17 federal claim under RICO, the Court will dismiss his RICO claim with prejudice and 18 decline to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over the remaining state law claims. See 28 19 U.S.C. § 1337(c)(3); Ove v. Gwinn, 264 F.3d 817, 826 (9th Cir. 2001) ("A court may 20 decline to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over related state-law claims once it has 21 dismissed all claims over which it has original jurisdiction.").

22                   IV.    CONCLUSION

23                   For the reasons stated above,

24                   IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

25                   1.       Defendants' motions to dismiss are GRANTED IN PART as to Plaintiff's 26 third claim under RICO and seventh claim under RESPA. Plaintiff is granted leave to 27 amend his RICO claim to rectify the deficiencies discussed above. The RESPA claim is
